

Roosevelt Considers Wage Bill

Congregational Approval Of Wage Increase For Armed Men Given Today

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The senate completed congressional approval today of a military wage adjustment bill fixing a minimum pay scale of $50 a month for the armed forces, effective as of June 1, 1942.

Senate adoption of a conference report, approved yesterday by the House, sent the comprehensive pay measure to President Roosevelt for his consideration.

Estimated to cost an additional $500,000,000 or more yearly, the bill would increase to $50 a month the pay of army buck privates, navy apprentice seamen and men of equal rank in the marines and coast guard. Increases would be granted to all ranks up to and including second lieutenants and ensigns. Privates now get a minimum of $21 a month.

Expense Allowance Up

Rental and subsistence allowances of higher ranking officers also would be increased.

Final Senate action ended a month of controversy which twice saw the measure sent to conference as senators stood behind a vote to make the minimum pay $42 a month. They receded from that position early this week.

A third effort to send the bill back to conference failed in the House before yesterday's overwhelming record vote was taken.

Opposed to Some Features

Rep. Faddis (D-Pa.) objected to a Senate provision boosting the retirement pay of approximately 120 World War officers removed from the service, he said, for unfitness and also opposed making the legislation permanent. While finding no fault with the pay provisions themselves, Faddis unsuccessfully tried to have the legislation returned to conference to remove the features to which he objected.

The legislation boosts the base pay of privates, corporals, sergeants and second lieutenants in the army; apprentice seamen, second class seamen, first class seamen, petty officers and ensigns in the navy, and corresponding ranks in other service branches, such as the marine corps, the coast guard, the public health service and the coast and geodetic survey.

Effective June 1

It provides for increased rental and subsistence allowances for all officers, and gives enlisted men a bonus of 20 per cent of their pay for sea duty or overseas service.

All the increases were made retroactive to the first of June.

Estimated to add from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually to the service payrolls, based on strength of last January 1, the legislation makes United States privates the second best paid in the world, being exceeded only by Australian Rookies who receive $62.10 per month.

They were apprehended May 12 by secret service agents who seized engraved plates and 212,000 counterfeit stamps with a face value of $53,000.

Roosevelt's Leadership Will Achieve Victory---Stimson

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson asserted today that the courage and determination of President Roosevelt was furnishing the leadership "which will achieve the final victory of the war."

In an address prepared for the alumni luncheon at the Harvard commencement, Stimson said, "His clarity of foresight and his unflinching grasp of the essential strategic factors of a worldwide struggle, you have all been able to follow. But only those who have been his lieutenants in the struggle can know the close personal attention with which he has vitalized every important decision. x x x"

Stimson declared "We are training an army able to fight anywhere in this wide world where the interest and safety of the United States make it necessary that they fight."

Need Support Of Spirit

He said they would need "the support of our spirit in this war" and that we would need "the support of their spirit not only during this war but long after the war has been ended."

"For never again," he concluded, "must we allow narrowness of vision, sluggishness of spirit, selfishness of outlook, to throw away the fruits of a great national effort and a great victory for freedom and for justice and righteousness among the nations."

Preparing For 1942 State Fair

Ernest W. Baker, "secretary-manager of the Missouri State Fair states positively that there will be a fair, and a good one, this year, the week of August 23 to 30, to repeated questions from the public as to whether there is going to be an exposition.

Mr. Baker sent out questionnaires to those who have been exhibitors in the past, asking their opinion on a fair this year. The greater number were in favor of a fair, others who questioned the advisability of having the fair in the face of war conditions, said they would still be exhibitors and a third group said there should be a fair, even if it was necessary to cut the premiums.

Gaylord Heatn, of Lamar, who was in charge of the publicity last year has returned to Sedalia, and is again in charge of the publicity department for the 1942 exposition.

Among the main attractions this year will be noted bands of the country and Mr. Baker expects to know the last of this week just which bands will be here.

Motor Vehicle Stamp On Sale

New Stamps For Coming Fiscal Year At Postoffice

The $5 federal use tax on motor vehicles good for the fiscal year from July 1, 1942 to June 30, 1943, went on sale Wednesday and may be obtained at the motor vehicle window at the Sedalia postoffice during the regular hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Postoffices throughout the country collect the taxes for the United States Treasury department. All motor vehicles must have these tax stickers as provided for in the 1941 Federal Revenue Act, passed and approved September 20, 1941. The first motor vehicle use tax became effective February 1, 1942, and the stamps sold for the last five-month period will expire June 30.

Serve A Year

The new $5 stamps, which will serve through the coming fiscal year, are numbered on the face. On the back is space for the make, model, engine number and state tag number of the motor vehicle which may be filled out by the owner.

All motor vehicles, such as are used on public highways, must have these stamps readily available for inspection so that any one passing would be able to see them. The most acceptable place to affix them on the car, some motorists believe, is the inside of the windshield. Glue is on the face of the stamps.

The law provides that any person who uses or permits the use of his motor vehicle before the tax is paid shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction may be fined not more than $25 or imprisoned for not more than 30 days, or both.

Includes Boats

The same division of the Revenue Act also provides for taxes on boats, the term boat meaning "all boats propelled by machinery, sail or oar, measuring 16 feet or more in both, all length, owned by a citizen or resident of the United States."

Yearly tax for boats 16 feet but not over 28 feet is $5, and taxes on boats of greater over-all length range up to $200.

Sedco Shoe Factory Manager States That Is Present Output

The Sedco shoe factory is progressing in its output of shoes, Max Wolkowitz, general manager, stated this morning with the peak at the present time 200 pairs of shoes a day. Mr. Wolkowitz also said that as soon as the factory is completely organized and workers are more familiar with their duties, the output should reach 2,000 pairs a day.

At the present time there are eleven men and thirty women at work and each day one to two are being added to the list for training. Next week at least fifteen persons will be added to be trained, and from then on the daily addition will be increased as the training progresses. It is expected to be several weeks before the full force of 300 will be at work.

Some Supplies

The company, at present, has enough supplies to manufacture women's shoes at full production for between four and five months with prospects good for obtaining additional materials. As soon as the plant gets under full production it is expected to carry on without any trouble.

Next week additional machinery will be received and installed immediately. Priorities for a time held up the operation of the factory, but release of some machinery has been made, making it possible to carry out the original plan for a factory of 300 persons.

Making Women's Shoes

The style of shoe now being made is a women's novelty shoe and as soon as better organization is completed the manufacture of more staple shoes will get underway.

The workers start their work at 7:40 o'clock in the morning and work until 10 o'clock, then a ten minute rest period; work until 12 o'clock and have one hour for lunch. Work starts in the afternoon at 1 o'clock, continues until 3, at which time a ten minute rest period is held and the day's (Please Turn to Page 4, Column 7)

This Pulitzer prize play first was presented by the Players on May 8 at the high school, under the sponsorship of the Horace Mann Parent Teacher association, and received high praise.

Russia, Britain Sign Treaty; New Accounts Midway Battle

Better Show Than The World Series Is The Comment Of Crew Members

BY ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Dramatic new accounts of the battle of Midway revealed today that American Flying Fortresses and other U. S. forces broke up two huge Japanese fleets, beat off an attack by 180 enemy planes and saved the Hawaiian islands from invasion.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet, said perhaps half of the enemy ships were sunk or damaged in the three-day battle which saw Japan suffer her greatest naval disaster in history.

Admiral Nimitz said thousands of Japanese must have perished—left to drown by their shipwrecks in flight before the Americans.

The battle ended Saturday when Pursuing U. S. forces lost contact with the enemy in the darkness.

"A better show than the world series," jubilant crew members of one of the army's big B-17 bombers summed up the battle.

Coincidentally, Japan's reputation for veracity appeared to have slumped even in Berlin as the German radio broadcast Stockholm reports discounting the Japanese boasts of victory in the battle of Midway and Tokyo hints that Japanese troops had landed in the Aleutian islands off Alaska.

The broadcast cited American viewpoints that "after the naval battle in the Coral sea and heavy losses in the attacks on Midway island, the Japanese had lost so much of their combined military fighting power that they could not attempt a successful invasion."

Admit Sinkings

At the same time, Japan's leading civilian naval expert, Masanori Ito, gave the first authoritative suggestion from Tokyo that two Japanese aircraft carriers had been sunk, as claimed by the United States, instead of one sunk and one heavily damaged.

It declared that "in view of the great success" of Japan's far-flung invasion forces "we should not be disappointed at the loss of two aircraft carriers."

The two big enemy armadas approached Midway on June 3, with a train of transports striking westward while a powerful battle squadron steamed up from another direction.

Former Sedalian Asks For Death

JEFFERSON CITY, June 11.—(AP)—Warren McConville, 21, of Holden, Mo., was bound over to the October term of the Cole county court today on a charge of murder after a preliminary hearing in which he declared "I want the death penalty."

McConville signed a written confession that he killed Victor Block in a robbery of a Jefferson City filling station last February 25. He surrendered voluntarily in St. Louis while police were conducting a clueless search for the slayer.

McConville is a former Sedalian, and when in Sedalia lived with his parents at 1017 East Third street.

U. S. President And Russian Commissar Agree On Views

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, the White House announced today, have reached a "full understanding" in conversations in Washington "with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

The White House, in a formal statement disclosing that Molotov had visited this country, gave no additional details on a second front. Nor did the statement say whether the agreement was to open such a front or not to do so.

Another momentous development announced today, in London, was that Russia and Britain had signed a 20-year mutual assistance treaty.

Unity of Views

The American president and the Russian commissar, the White House said, also attained a "unity" of views on two other vital questions pertaining to their war efforts:

"Measures for increasing and speeding up the supplies of planes, tanks and other kinds of war materials" from the United States to Russia, and the "fundamental problems of cooperation of the Soviet Union and the United States in safeguarding peace and security to the freedom-loving peoples after the war."

Looks Ahead To Post War Days

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that this nation, in the post-war period, should refrain from attempting to enforce its system of democracy on all the peoples of the world in order to insure their freedom.

"Democracy, we think, is the best possible soil in which to cultivate human freedom, that is not necessarily so," he asserted in a prepared address at Harvard's 291st commencement after he and Secretary of War Stimson had been awarded honorary degrees for their part in the war effort.

"All that we can do, all that we should attempt, in the fateful years which will follow the conclusion of the war," Knox said, "is to help create an era of tranquility; to foster a wholesome economic order; to elevate living standards and reduce want and privation; to promote the spread of education and understanding; to rebuild, with all of the wisdom we can command, a fabric of international law, and to compel its observance, by force if necessary."

Approves Half Cent Increase

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee decided today to increase the federal tax on cigarettes from 6½ cents to 7 cents a package in order to raise $65,500,000.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the committee had tentatively agreed to raise the present $3.25 per thousand tax to $3.50 and had rejected a treasury proposal that a tax differential be established between 10-cent brands and 15-cent brands.

Doughton said that the committee planned to dispose later in the day of treasury requests and increased taxes on cigars and smoking tobacco designed to raise another $40,000,000.

The treasury has proposed that the tax on 10-cent cigarettes be made $3.50 per thousand and the rate of 15-cent brands be raised to $4.00 a thousand and its experts said such increases should produce about $188,000,000.

Ford Company May Make Gliders

DETROIT, June 11.—(AP)—Disclosure that the Ford Motor company is studying its equipment and facilities with a view towards making gliders for the army air corps was approved today by army authorities here.

The army air corps announced this week that applications of men from 18 to 35 years old to be trained as glider pilots now are being accepted.

Details of the glider production planned here were withheld.

"Both sides state with satisfaction," the statement declared, "the unity of their views on all these questions."

Molotov Now Home

Molotov, bespectacled, 52-year-old right-hand man of Premier Joseph Stalin, arrived in Washington on May 29 and left on June 4. He now is safely back home, the White House said.

The statement released today was approved by both Molotov and Mr. Roosevelt and withheld until the former had returned. The discussions entered into while the foreign commissar was a secret guest at the White House apparently ranged over the whole field of military and economic problems of mutual concern to the two nations.

Establish Closer Relationships

Mr. Roosevelt, at their conclusion, asked Molotov to inform Stalin that the chief executive "feels these conversations have been most useful in establishing a basis for fruitful and closer relationship between the two governments in the pursuit of the common objectives of the United Nations."

The members of the official Soviet mission to this country were not announced, the White House statement referring only to the Molotov "party."

Little Hope For Increase In Sugar Rationing

The department of agriculture reported today that the United States supply of sugar this year might be the smallest in more than two decades, primarily because of transportation difficulties, and held out little hope for an increase in the sugar ration.

Hull said that both the state department and the navy were taking every precaution against possible use of the waters off French Guiana for aid or comfort to the enemy.

Slashed Fund Request

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—House appropriations committee members disclosed today that the budget bureau had slashed Leon Henderson's request for funds for the office of price administrator by approximately 20 per cent, bringing the total down to about $161,000,000.

The allotment, subject to approval by congress, would provide for between 65,000 and 70,000 employees, rather than the force of about 90,000 which the rationing chief had sought.

Some Landlords To Register

The office of price administration announced today that landlords renting houses, apartments, flats, tenements and similar housing accommodations in the first 20 defense rental areas are now under government control would be required to register next week with OPA rent officials.

The defense rental areas involved include Burlington, Iowa, and Wichita, Kas.

U. S. Government Fully Informed On Negotiations; Japan Not Mentioned

LONDON, June 11.—(AP) Russia and Britain signed a 20-year mutual assistance treaty, it was officially announced today.

The pact was signed May 26 and was "against Hitlerite Germany," the announcement for foreign minister Anthony Eden said.

The powers pledged themselves to rebuild Europe on terms of the Atlantic charter.

The 20-year treaty, which Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov signed at the foreign office here for Russia, provides "for common action to preserve peace and resist aggression in the post-war period."

It pledges the nations "not to enter into any negotiations" with Hitler's government or any German government that fails to denounce aggression.

Satisfactory Conferences

Foreign Secretary Eden disclosed that the announcement of the treaty that Molotov had been in Washington, where he had "most useful and satisfactory talks with the president."

The United States government was kept fully informed of the negotiations for the treaty it was said.

The treaty fails to mention Japan.

Eden said that Molotov had arrived in London May 21 and the 20-year agreement was signed 5 days later, just before Molotov left for the United States.

Molotov agreed to the treaty on the evening of May 25 after three days of discussion.

Used Gold Pen

The treaty was signed by Eden and Molotov with a gold mounted fountain pen belonging to Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Britain and Russia agreed to render one another "all possible economic assistance after the war" and to avoid participation in any alliance directed against the other contracting power.

Holotov has "now got back to Moscow," Eden said.

Highway Bids Open June 26

JEFFERSON CITY, June 11.—(AP)—The highway department will open bids June 26 on 24 miles of highway improvements termed "essential to national defense" by the war department.

Washington will pay most of the cost.

The work will include straightening and repaving about 2 miles of highway 66 near the entrance to Ft. Leonard Wood. The project is designed to take kinks out of the present road and to ease traffic congestion at the fort entrance.

Another job calls for "seven miles of paving on Route 71 between McElhaney, Camp Crowder and through Goodman in Newton and McDonald counties.

U. S. 40 will be widened near the Walden Springs ordnance plant in St. Charles county.

PARAGOULD, Ark., June 11.—(AP)—In a dispute over whether his daughter would leave to join her bridegroom, Arthur Robertson grabbed a 12-gauge shotgun and killed her and then himself at their farm home eight miles east of here, Deputy Sheriff Nath Colvin reported today.

Coroner Ray Little described the case as murder-suicide.

Robertson was 58, and the daughter, Mrs. Atis Mae Robertson Tucker, 19. The shootings occurred about midnight.

Mrs. Tucker was preparing to join her husband, Randle, of Hollywood, Mo., whom she married Saturday night and the father was trying to dissuade her, the deputy sheriff said.

Drops Dead On Street After Arrival Here

W. P. Carleton
On Way For Visit
When Stricken

A few minutes after arriving in Sedalia about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Walter P. Carleton, 67, of Perry, Mo., suffered a heart attack in the downtown district of the city and died almost immediately.

Carleton and his wife had come to Sedalia from Perry en route to the home of a daughter in Deepwater, Mo., and had left their luggage at the bus station. They were walking to the hotel from a bus depot on South Lamine avenue when Carleton suddenly said he felt ill and grasped a lamppost at the corner of Lamine avenue and Fourth street.

Mrs. Carleton caught her husband as he started to fall to the pavement and with the help of passersby carried him into the Westport Motor company and placed him on a couch. Dr. J. E. Mitchell was called and found the man dead upon arrival.

Former Groceryman
Carleton was a retired groceryman, and had operated a store in Deepwater for several years, moving to Perry about seven years ago. He was born in Mayesburg, Mo.

Recently he and his wife had been living with Mrs. Carleton's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Cash Sproggins, on a farm near Perry. They left home about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning for a visit in Deepwater with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Briggs. Carleton hadn't been well, and it was thought that a visit in Deepwater would rest him. He and his wife were to be met at Clinton by Mr. and Mrs. Briggs and were to continue together to Deepwater.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin Funeral chapel and was removed to Deepwater in a hearse from that town last night. Dr. W. T. Bishop, coroner, was called to view the body, and stated that death was due to heart disease.

The only other survivors besides Mrs. Carleton and their daughter are two brothers, one of whom resides in Oklahoma and the other in Arkansas.

Nimitz Indicates Thousands Of Japs Lost At Midway

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN
PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, June 11.—(P)—The Japanese force which Americans defeated at Midway was an armada of more than 30 ships and perhaps half of them became casualties in the first three days of battle, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific fleet, disclosed Wednesday.

Information released by Nimitz indicated that thousands of the enemy must have perished. Japanese ships were sunk or damaged so rapidly and the invading fleet was on the run to such an extent that the Nipponese did not stop to pick up their men who had been cast into the sea.

This huge invading force, it was said, was in addition to the undisclosed number of ships sent against Dutch Harbor about the same time.

Returns Not All In
The battle of Midway moved so rapidly that the final returns still are not scored. It ended, for the time being at least, Saturday night when pursuing American forces lost the Japanese fleet remnants in the darkness.

Until the final accounting the score, as reported by Admiral Nimitz, stands at two and perhaps three Japanese aircraft carriers sunk, with all of their planes; one destroyer sunk and three battleships and eight to eleven other ships damaged, three of them transports and the others warships.

Nimitz reported the loss of one American destroyer, damage to one United States aircraft carrier and the loss of an undisclosed number of planes.

(The Japanese have admitted the loss of one aircraft carrier, damage to another carrier and a cruiser, and 35 planes missing. In turn they asserted they had sunk two 19,900-ton American aircraft carriers one transport and shot down 135 United States planes.)

Army-Navy Vs All-League Stars July 10

Lieut. Cochran Has 13 Soldiers And 10 Sailors On His Team

BY GAYLE TALBOT

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochran, manager of the Service All-Stars, has chosen 13 soldiers and 10 sailors to make up his team for the benefit game at Cleveland July 7 against the winner of the annual American League-National League All-Star contest.

Furthermore, manager Mickey is serious about winning the Cleveland classic. He has asked that his players be relieved of their military duties in time to report to him at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station 10 days before the game for hard practice.

It is a powerful squad that Cochran has picked, comprising the cream of big league talent that has answered the colors—Bobby Feller, Hank Greenberg, Cecil Travis, Don Padgett, Johnny Rigney and the others.

Gowdy-Earnshaw Coaches

As his coaches Cochran named Hank Gowdy of the Cincinnati Reds, who was the first big leaguer to enlist in the other World War, and George Earnshaw, former great pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics and other clubs, now in the navy.

The military wants to win this game as much as Cochran does. Pitcher Mickey Harris, formerly with the Boston Red Sox, will be flown up from the Canal Zone, and clearance will be granted every other player as soon as possible.

As a warm-up for the Cleveland game, Cochran's stars probably will participate in a contest at Detroit July 4 between Great Lakes and Camp Custer, the navy men playing with Great Lakes and the army men with Custer. This would be in the nature of a homecoming for three players, and Pat Mullin, all of whom were with Detroit before going into the service.

Greenberg, who drew the game's top salary of $52,500 a year before entering the army, has been listed as an infielder by Cochran and probably will be stationed on first base in the benefit game.

Sturm Loses Finger

Cochran included another first baseman on his roster, Johnny Sturm of the Yankees, but it is doubtful that Sturm will break into the line-up. Since joining the army he lost a finger in a training accident.

Following is the roster submitted by Cochran, with the players' former clubs and their branch of service ("A" army; "N" navy):

Catchers: Frank Pytlak, Boston Red Sox (N); Ken Sylvestri, New York Yankees (A); Vinnie Smith, Pittsburgh Pirates (N).

Pitchers: Bobby Feller, Cleveland Indians (N); John Rigney, Chicago White Sox (N); Hugh Mulcahy, Philadelphia Phils. (A); Mickey Harris, Boston Red Sox (A); Fred Hutchinson, Detroit Tigers (N); John Grodzicki, St. Louis Cards (A).

Infielders: Emmett Mueller, Philadelphia Phils (A); Benny McCoy, Philadelphia Athletics (N); John Lucadello, St. Louis Browns (N); Cecil Travis, Washington (A); Buddy Lewis, Washington (A); Johnny Berradino, St. Louis Browns (A); Hank Greenberg, Detroit (A); Johnny Sturm, New York Yankees (A).

Outfielders: Don Padgett, Brooklyn (N); Pat Mullin, Detroit (A); Sam Chapman, Philadelphia Athletics (N); Joe Grace, St. Louis Browns (N); Morrie Aronovich, New York Giants (A); Joe Marty, Philadelphia Phils (A).

Legion Men To Hear Commander

A delegation of Sedalia Legionnaires are planning on attending a meeting at Jefferson City, under the auspices of the Roscoe Enloe Post No. 5, American Legion at which National Commander Lynn Stambaugh will be the principal speaker. The meeting is scheduled for June 18.

The dinner is to be served at the McCung Park. Governor Forrest C. Donnell, Dr. Leonce Kominsky, Chef de Cuisine de Fer, 40 and 8, and Commander Stambaugh will speak. Following the speaking special entertainment and dancing will be enjoyed.

Dr. G. A. Clason, Missouri Department Commander, will accompany the national group on its tour of Missouri.

Splendid Talk By L. L. Studer

Given Today To Members Of The Kiwanis Club

"The Preservation of Our Way of Living," was the subject of a patriotic talk by L. L. Studer, Missouri Pacific district storekeeper, before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell hall Thursday noon. The talk was appropriate to the club's Flag Day program.

In his talk Mr. Studer stressed the necessity of American production, conservation, unity and defense in the all-out war effort to preserve the freedoms permitted in a democracy. He commended our way of life with the so-called New Order of axis countries, spawned on blood lust and brutality.

Introduced By Mayor The speaker was introduced by Mayor A. H. Wilks, a club member who presided as program chairman in the absence of L. W. Richardson.

E. E. Sterling celebrated the arrival of a new daughter by passing around cigars to the club members.

Guests today were: Walter Kennedy, Jr., with his father, Walter Kennedy, Sr.; R. L. Van Hoesen, new Scott store manager, with Ken Carstens; Otto F. Fisher, Wichita, Kas., with his brother-in-law, Herbert Schrankler. Mr. Fisher is a former Sedalia and is visiting for a day with his mother, Mrs. George Fisher, 710 West Fifth street.

Announcement was made that the board of directors would meet Friday noon at Keuck's.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—A House Military Affairs subcommittee was told today that War Production Board officials are risking possible power shortages in some areas to meet constantly growing demands for copper for munitions.

J. S. Knowlson, director of WPB's industry operations division, testified that "the growing demand for power and the growing demand for copper have necessitated many compromises."

"In many places, he said, 'we are taking chances of power shortages for which our only excuse is that need for shells to-day justifies the risk of a shutdown tomorrow.'"

The committee, of which Rep. Faddis (D-Pa.) is chairman, is inquiring into whether the Rural Electrification Administration's Ark-La. Electric Co-operative, "wasted" hundreds of thousands of pounds of copper in building a transmission line from Oklahoma to Arkansas.

Knowlson said WPB's power division recommended priorities for this line, which will transmit power from Ground River dam, in Oklahoma, to an aluminum plant at Lake Catherine, Ark.

W. S. Peterson, consulting engineer for WPB's power division, said he had approved the line not only because he considered it essential to supply part of the power needed for the next several months by the aluminum plant, but needed later for other war plants in the power shortage area of Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

WPB Approves Petroleum Line WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The War Production Board has approved immediate construction of the world's largest petroleum conduit — a 550-mile, 24-inch pipeline from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill.—to increase the flow of oil to the east.

Wheat Prices Are Up Today CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Rising as much as 2 cents a bushel again today, wheat prices reached highs for the past two weeks as the market found renewed strength in the senate agriculture committee's recommendation favoring legislation that would require crop loans at full parity this year.

The 1942 wheat loan rate has already been announced at 85 per cent of parity, the minimum now provided by law, but grain men said no loans have been made as yet, although harvest is underway.

Other gains rose with wheat but, before the close, gains in all pits were sharply reduced or wiped out due to late profit taking attracted by the recent general advance.

Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent higher than yesterday, July $1.19½, September $1.21½ to $1.21½; corn ¼ to ½ cent lower, July 86½¢ to 86½¢, September 86¢; oats unchanged to ¼ cent off; rye ¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher; soybeans ¼ to ½ cent higher. Soybeans were up about 2 cents at one time while rye showed gains of almost that much.

News Leaves Market Groping NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—A big international news budget today left the stock market groping unsuccessfully for definite trends.

The list got off to a hesitant start. Dealings turned sluggish and, in the final hour, gains and losses of fractions to around 2 points were well distributed.

Buyers and sellers apparently were unable to find much ammunition in the announcement of the new British-Russian line-up, the surprise visit of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov to Washington and word an agreement had been reached between the latter and the President on the urgent need of creating a second front in Europe this year.

The feeling among analysts was that the majority of customers inclined to await further World War developments before taking any positive market position.

Transfers for the full proceedings were approximately 300,000 shares.

Don Smith Wins Quarter final Match

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—(AP)—Immune to the favorite's jinx, Don Smith of St. Joseph won his quarter-final match in the annual Missouri state amateur men's golf tournament today, defeating Jack Henderson of St. Louis, 6 and 5.

Smith, who has won or tied for medalist honors the last three years, shot par golf for the 13 holes required to trounce Henderson and lost only the seventh, where he three-putted.

Blames Part Of Her Woes On Singer

LOS ANGELES, June 11—(AP)—Socially prominent Mrs. Natalie Scott of Long Island, N. Y., blaming opera singer Marion Talley for part of her marital woes, obtained an uncontested divorce Wednesday from film director Aubrey Scott.

"When I read of my husband's escapades with Miss Talley, I suffered such extreme anguish that I cried so much my eyes became affected," Mrs. Scott said in a deposition.

Scott's name figured prominently in the recent child custody court battle involving Miss Talley and her ex-husband, Adolph Eckstrom.

The Scotts were not present at today's hearing before Judge Alfred Paonessa. She was reported at the home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine A. Hyatt, Garden City, Long Island.

U.S. Navy Task Force With British Fleet

Helps Keep Nazi Craft From The Shipping Lanes

By J. WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, THURSDAY, June 11—(P)—A strong United States navy task force has joined the British home fleet for a share in the job of keeping Hitler's high seas fleet from smashing at allied shipping lanes.

The first announcement of the presence of the United States warships came today with the disclosure that King George VI had inspected a United States battleship, cruiser and destroyer.

The presence of the big ships was taken as an indication that the task force, commanded by Rear Admiral Robert Giffen, was powerful enough to offset or deal single-handedly if necessary with Germany's mighty battleship Tirpitz and cruiser Admiral Hipper if they attempted to sail out of their base at Trondheim, Norway.

It was obvious that the American force had been in British waters for some time. The announcement said it was greeted far out at sea by the British cruiser Edinburgh and escorted into port.

That historic duty was one of the Edinburgh's last. She was sunk May 2 during an attack by German submarines, destroyers and bombers on a convoy in the Arctic sea lane to Russia.

U. S. Plane Appears

An officer who was on the Edinburgh was quoted as saying the first indication the British had that the American force actually was near came when a United States navy plane flew over the British cruiser.

"The weather then was so bad that we were very surprised that any naval aircraft should be flying," he said.

To the Edinburgh the American fleet force signaled:

"We are more than glad to serve with the home fleet and are bending every effort to take our proper place in the battle line of that experienced and gallant fighting force."

While the American forces engaged in all naval activities of the home fleet, the main task of the British and American heavy ships has been to keep the Nazi super battleship Tirpitz, the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the strong cruisers Admiral Hipper and Prinz Eugen bottled up.

Batter Nazi Fleet

The RAF has so battered the Nazi fleet that the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen are in German ports for repairs, but it is not known how soon they may be ready for action again.

The 35,000-ton Tirpitz and the 10,000-ton Admiral Hipper also have been reported hit by bombs but not put out of action.

Ever since spring reopened the Arctic route to Russia observers have been expecting the German warships to make a desperate effort to cut the supply line in what probably would be the biggest naval engagement of the war in European waters.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in European waters, personally welcomed the United States task force, which is under his direct command.

Admiral Giffen, in an official statement after the colorful ceremony in which King George inspected the American ships, said the king had sent the following message:

"It has given me great pleasure to have had this opportunity of visiting the United States ships and thus being enabled to meet some officers and men of the United States navy task force of the home fleet."

"I have been deeply impressed by the smart and efficient appearance of the ships and ships' companies and I congratulate you and all those under your command upon the alert and cheerful spirit with which you are undertaking your duties in the common cause."

"The enjoyment of my visit has been much enhanced by the presence of Admiral Stark. I send you and your officers and men my best wishes for a safe return to your homes when victory is won."

Defense Group Holds Session

It was announced Wednesday night at a meeting of the Transportation and Communications committee of the Pettis County Council of Civilian Defense that organization of the group has been practically perfected. The committee is headed by Guy T. Calender.

Representatives of the railroad and truck lines, telephone, telegraph and messenger service were present at the meeting, held at the Office of Civilian Defense. James McKinney chairman of the messenger service division, outlined the complete setup of the method which will be utilized to carry out that service under the OCD. The plan was accepted and approved by the committee.

Grasshoppers In County Begin To Cause Damage

Poisonous Bait Is Procurable For Their Eradication

Young grasshoppers have appeared in large enough numbers in certain areas of Pettis County, particularly the Smithton, Bowling Green, and Hughesville communities, to cause serious damage. In order to check this outbreak of grasshopper infestation, a mixing station has been set up to provide poison bait for the hoppers. The grasshopper bait may be secured at the Farm Bureau Service Company on North Osage street, Sedalia, at a reasonable cost which includes the cost of material and the labor of mixing. The bait being used includes 90 pounds of sawdust, 20 pounds of shorts, 10 pounds of bran, 6 gallons sodium arsenite, and 3 gallons of water. This makes a moist, crumbly mash that can be scattered thinly and evenly over the areas infested with the young hoppers. Eighteen to 20 pounds of the bait is sufficient to cover one acre. The bait can be spread more evenly by hand and should be spread uniformly and not in lumps or small piles. In order to spread it at the rate recommended it is necessary to scatter it about as thinly as possible. Spreading can be done more effectively while walking and carrying a bucket of bait on the arm, although some prefer to spread it from horse back or the rear end of a truck or wagon.

Spreading Time Important

The time of spreading the bait is very important. The bait should be spread just ahead of the time when the hoppers feed most actively. Since the hoppers climb up on objects at night to roost and drop to the ground when the early morning temperature and other conditions are favorable for feeding, it is important to observe temperature very carefully. With present temperature, heavy feeding begins about sunrise and continues until the temperature reaches 90 to 100, therefore, the bait should be spread early in the morning.

Precaution Given

Sodium arsenite is a poison and every possible precaution should be taken in using poison bait. It should be kept out of reach of children and should carry a poison label. In scattering the bait, grease one's hands and finger nails will protect them. All bait should be scattered thinly over the ground and any unused poison bait must be kept out of reach of livestock. Experiments show that grasshopper bait, if properly prepared and scattered, that is, at the rate of 18 to 20 pounds per acre, is not a menace to livestock, poultry, game birds, and wild animals.

Every person should be on the alert for grasshopper outbreaks on their farm. Should these outbreaks occur, they should secure the poison bait and spread it on infested areas.

Insect Control Council

Those that need help in combating their situation should either get in touch with the county extension agent or a member of the Pettis County Insect Pest Control council. The personnel of the Insect Pest Control council includes:

Thomas J. Raines, Heath Creek Township; J. C. Longan, Prairie Township; Geo. Fichter, Dresden Township; Bruce Claycomb, Longwood Township; Elbert Rissler, Blackwater Township; J. A. DeJarnette, Cedar Township; Ernest Jones, LaMonte Township; Berry Elliott, Hughesville, Township; E. H. Boltz, Green Ridge Township; Frank B. Van Dyke, Lake Creek Township; Ira Pace,

Rural Life Problems

What are farm people going to do for recreation? Although, they will be so busy a small amount of recreation will be all which they have time for. They will remember that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Admission of 20c or less which formerly was exempt are now taxed except when the admission is less than 10c or is for children under 12 years of age. Admission to Agriculture fairs and local and charitable entertainments are now taxed also. Prices of phonograph records, musical instruments, sporting goods, cameras, and other supplies are also increased by excise taxes. Certain recreational equipment will not be as easily available because of priorities on metals and rubber and by the shift of some manufacturers into defense work. Fewer radios and phonographs will be produced for civilians during 1942. The plants in a good many cases are being converted into the production of arm force radio, signal corp, and detection.

The curtailed use of automobiles will change recreational activities of many rural groups. Families will take fewer trips for recreational activity, however, small neighborhood get togethers can be held. Transportation to these may be by walking, horse back, bicycling, or by wagon. The tires used to get a short distance will also last much longer than those which have been spent in driving several miles to some commercial entertainment. Pitching horse shoes with the neighbor children will help to forget one's troubles and win the war. A healthy happy family needs to plan good times together. Social gatherings such as organizations of farm men, women, and children will need to be continued in an effort to broaden the horizon and promise better family living. The old radio and phonograph will be kept in repair. Children may be taught better care of their toys which they have and newspaper and magazines will be read to a greater extent. This effort will make well informed citizens who have taken a few minutes periodically for recreation, the bulwark of democracy.

Cotton Bags To Protect Clothes

Mrs. S. W. McClure of the Quisenberry Community suggests that in keeping moths from getting in woollens, which is one of the Homemakers patriotic duty this year, the use of cotton bags be made. Mrs. McClure says, "be certain that the garments are free from moth eggs, larvae, or moths. Then place them in cotton bags and close them securely. Since moths do not care for anything but wool, they are not likely to go through the bag." It is very necessary in doing this that the garments be well brushed and sunned or cleaned previous to the time they are placed in the bag. Then it is also wise to put them in a place where there has not been moths. One of the safest things to do is to place paradichlore benzene in the clothing or articles stored since this chemical not only kills moths, but the moth eggs and larvae as well. Mrs. McClure's suggestion that preserving woollens is a patriotic duty is being carried out further by Mrs. Paul Read of the same community who has an old woolen bathing suit that she is making a modern style seersucker bathing suit over the old woolen part. In this way she will be saving the amount of wool that goes into the suit. This idea could be well used on suits that have been out-grown, faded, or moth eaten.

Suggestions for Victory Garden

Plant Chinese Cabbage Now

Chinese cabbage is a vegetable which is not as common as many of the others, however, it is gaining popularity in Missouri and more families are growing it each year.

This crop thrives best during the cooler portion of the growing season and is an excellent fall crop in this state. Rapid continuous growth is important to high quality and therefore it does best on a rich soil which contains an abundance of organic matter and moisture.

The Chihill variety which produces long, slender, compact heads is the best variety for Missouri.

It can be grown by producing plants in a flat or cold-frame and then transplanting the plants to the garden. The most common practice, and considerably the easier way, is to plant the seed in the vegetable area where the plants are to be grown. June 15th is considered the best time for planting the seed. After the plants have started to develop, they should be thinned in the row to stand about 18 inches apart thus giving each head a chance to develop without being handicapped by being crowded. Approximately 75 days are required from the time the seed is planted until the heads are ready for use.

Any gardener who has never grown Chinese cabbage would do well to try a few this year as it is a very fine vegetable which is available for fall use and may be stored for a short period.

Remove Crops As Soon As They Are Past the Eating Stage

As soon as a planting is past good eating stage it should be removed from the row where it was grown. For example, as soon as radishes get past the eating stage and become puffy or strong they should all be removed. This is true of all crops, including lettuce, spinach, mustard, turnip greens and all others.

By thus removing them from the area they are prevented from taking out additional moisture and plant food from the soil. And, also thus removing them gives space in small areas for plantings of later crops.

In larger areas where this space is not needed for plantings of additional crops that season the weeds should be kept down until enough of the crops are removed to justify planting some legume such as soybeans on the area to be grown the rest of the season and turned under as a green manure crop. This practice will add organic matter which on most vegetable areas is very badly needed.

Advantages of Succession Plantings Are Now Evident

On those vegetable areas where only one planting of the early crops was made they are past the best eating stage and consequently none of the family cares much for them, and the amount of planting which is left is wasted.

On the other hand, in those areas where only small plantings were made at a time, and succession plantings made every fifteen days as suggested by the Missouri planting calendar, those families have been enjoying the early season crops in their very best eating stage from the first date they were available up to the present time. For example, those families have had lettuce, radishes, spinach, mustard, and perhaps onions in the small, tender, most delicious eating stage all during the season and will continue to have them several more weeks.

Fall Cabbage

Many more gardeners in Missouri grow cabbage in the spring than in the fall. The main reason for this is that more difficulties arise with the growing of fall cabbage and often the gardener neglects to give it the care which is necessary, and becomes discouraged.

All cabbage insects are particularly bad on fall cabbage and the disease cabbage yellows is also prevalent with the fall crop. In spite of these difficulties, however, it can be grown if the grower will realize these handicaps at the outset and start combating them as soon as he starts his crop.

The practice which is followed by many who successfully grow fall cabbage is to plant the seed about June 15th. This seed may be planted in a flat and the plants transplanted to the vegetable area, or it may be sown directly in the row where the cabbage is to grow, thinning the plants after they have started to develop. Planting distance is the same as for early cabbage.

The Marion Market and Globe, are two very good varieties to grow for the late crop where cabbage yellows infest the soil. These varieties may be stored successfully as may also the late Flat Dutch variety which is not yellow resistant.

Keep Weeds Out Of Sweet Potato Rows

Sweet potatoes on fertile well-prepared soil make excellent yields in Missouri, and furnish an abundance of food which may be stored for the family's use throughout the winter.

Very frequently the yield is unknowingly reduced by the neglect of the very simple practice of controlling weeds. The sweet potato is apparently very sensitive to competition and a few weeds will seriously hinder the full development of the potatoes.

It is, therefore, important that thorough but shallow cultivation be given sweet potatoes from the time they are set out until the vines entirely cover the ground. If this cultivation is given at the time the weeds are just sprouting their competition can be entirely removed and the sweet potatoes will be given the best opportunity to make their maximum yield.

Stop The Melon Beetles

If your melons and cucumbers are just coming through the ground you can best beat the striped cucumber beetle to the kill by dusting the hills with arsenate—even before the plants are entirely through the ground. With either of these poisons mix hydrated lime, using 1 part of the poison with 5 to 10 parts of lime.

After this early start it is then only necessary to dust the plants every few days. If your soil crusts, bulges and cracks when the young plants emerge from the group pulverize this crust by hand and see that the poison dust covers the stem of the plant down in the soil cracks or underneath the little canopies of soil crust.

4-H Club Boys and Girls Visit Gardens

See Progress Of Other Members And Discuss Same

The Victory Garden club members of the Quisenberry community with their leader Orin Chappell held a tour of each member's garden on June 4. The purpose of this tour was to see the progress made by each member and provide an opportunity to discuss vegetable production and insect control problems.

The tour started at the home of Earline Thompson. Other members' gardens visited include Alfred and Elsie Hall, Mary Ruth Booth, Grace and Ruby Lane, and Ila Jane Bennett.

During the tour each garden was discussed and scored according to the Missouri garden score sheet. In scoring each garden the following points were given consideration.

1. Arranged for field implementation cultivation.
2. Using Missouri Two Garden Area System.
3. Heavy application of manure applied last fall.
4. Plowed in fall or winter.
5. Garden protected from chickens.
6. Location—away from trees and convenient to house.
7. Number of kinds of vegetables in garden.
8. Number of succession plantings made.
9. Used vegetables in best eating stage.
10. Proper amounts of various vegetables planted.
11. Early season crops on one side of garden and late season on the other.
12. Free from weeds.
13. Insects controlled.
14. Rhubarb and asparagus plantings.
15. Is area planned for fall vegetables.
16. Individual or outstanding points.

In this particular garden club each member has accepted the responsibility of growing one vegetable by themselves, however, they are keeping the records on the entire family vegetable garden.

In summarizing the projects of the various members, the following may be said. All of the potatoes are looking good and free from insects. All of the vegetables were comparatively free from insect damage. The peas were fine, in fact, most of them were large enough to eat and can. Earline Thompson, who is growing Marglobe tomatoes, has many tomatoes already set on the vines. She has staked her tomatoes and anticipates a good crop.

During the tour each member

Several Ways For Preserving Peas Given

Drying Considered As The Oldest And Cheapest Methods

Peas are one vegetable that can be preserved in a number of ways. This fact means that there can be a greater variety in preparation which lends various means of tempting the family appetites.

Drying is the oldest, simplest, and cheapest method of food preservation. When storage space and the supply of containers for canned food are limited drying is an especially good method of saving surplus food. Dried food has a flavor different in flavor of the same food canned. Hence for variety, it is advisable to dry some peas. Gather when the peas are mature, but before the pods are yellow and dry. Shell and dip two minutes in boiling water. Drain and spread on screen trays $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ inches thick. Dry at 115 to 120 degrees to begin with allowing temperature to rise to 140 degrees. Stir frequently at beginning. The process is complete when peas are dry and brittle.

Dried Foods

In drying food, the object is to remove the water from the fresh vegetable as quickly as possible without cooking, scorching, or scouring the product. Dried foods keep because no organism causing spoilage cannot grow without water. Two things are necessary for successful drying: sufficient heat to cause rapid evaporation, and a current of air to carry moisture away from the product. In the home the food to be dried should be put on screen or wire trays. The food is usually sun dried or dried from the heat of the kitchen stove. For successful sun drying, a rainless season of bright sunshine, and high temperature is desirable. In Missouri sun drying is slow, uncertain, and inconvenient since the product must be put out and taken each day and a cloudy day may cause the product to sour or mold. Food dried with artificial heat from the kitchen stove is cleaner and faster but requires more careful supervision to prevent over cooking.

The length of time for drying will vary with temperature and air current, and if drying is done on the stove a thermometer is a necessary piece of equipment. When the peas are dried, put in paper bags, or shallow box or pan. Stir at daily intervals for ten days before storing in containers that will prevent entrance of light, moisture, dust, or insects. Store in a dry cool place. Moisture removed during drying should be replaced before cooking the dried product. Over-night soaking in lukewarm or cold water will do this. Cook in water in which food was soaked.

Canning Most Common

Canning is probably the most common method of preserving peas. In canning, heat is used to destroy spoilage organisms and food is held in air tight containers so no organisms can enter. Gather peas when at their best eating stage when fresh, young, and tender. To prevent undesirable changes in the peas due to enzyme action, they should be handled in rather small quantities so they may be canned as soon as possible after gathering. A good rule is 2 hours from the garden to the can. After shelling peas add hot water and simmer 5 minutes. Pack in containers quickly to keep hot. Leave 1 inch head space in the jar and use sufficient liquid so food will not be packed too tightly. Work out air bubbles with knife; seal and process in pressure cooker at 10 pounds for 50 minutes or 3 hours in the water bath.

The freezer locker is the newest method of food preservation and is used to supplement rather than to replace other methods. The peas which are to be put in the locker should be at their best eating stage when picked. Immediately after picking they should be shelled then scalded had an opportunity to compare their own garden with that of other members of the garden club. Most of the gardens looked very good, but the hot weather of last week showed its effects. Two of the things stressed by the leader on the tour to the club members was to keep working their gardens so as to maintain a good mulch and to keep the garden area free from weeds.

This group plans to hold two more tours during the summer and the three gardens that have the highest score at the end of the club year will be awarded a prize.

$\frac{1}{2}$ minutes in boiling water. Cool by plunging in cold water then drain. For a pint of vegetables, one should have 4 to 5 gallons of boiling water and peas when scalded should be placed in a wire basket or in cheese cloth while scalding. Pack dry or covered with a brine. To make the brine use 1 teaspoon of salt to a quart of water. Take food immediately to freezer locker for quick freezing. It is best to have vegetables in the locker within 2 hours after harvesting.

Activities Of Community And Home

Discussion And Social Meetings To Be Continued

The Home and Community committee of the Pettis County Farm Bureau met with Mrs. C. G. Schuttler of the State Home and Community committee last week. In checking through the activities of the Pettis County committee for 1942, they decided to continue the two social meetings and the two discussion groups as they have in the past. They are also working toward a representative in the women's public speaking contest. This is open to any Farm Bureau women and Pettis County has always been represented. Mrs. Wm. J. Lamm, Chairman of the Pettis County committee, invites any women who are interested to contact either her or the Farm Bureau office for more information about the contest. The subject for 1942 is, "The World We Want After War." The 4-H public speaking contest was also listed as one of the things which Pettis County is interested in. This year the topic for the 4-H contest is, "The Health H in Farm Bureau."

The Pettis County page in the State Farm Bureau news has already been prepared by the Home and Community committee through the cooperation of the Home Economics Extension Clubs. Rural Life Sunday has already been held. Two rather unfamiliar parts of the Home and Community's work are that of encouraging group hospitalization and the use of the student loan fund. Pettis County has usually contributed to the student loan fund which is for loan to boys and girls enrolling in college from Farm Bureau families. This fund has been maintained for several years by the State Farm Bureau and Community committee. Several other activities are being carried on through the regular Farm Bureau organization by the Home and Community committee. Mrs. Schuttler gave very useful suggestions for the activities of the Pettis County group.

Eggs Increase From Feeding

The kind of pullets that go into the laying house and the number of eggs they produce this fall will depend upon, to a large extent, how well they were fed during the summer says J. U. Morris, County Extension Agent. Any thing less than full feeding will lower profits and war food production. After eight weeks of age both mash and grain should be kept before the pullets at all times.

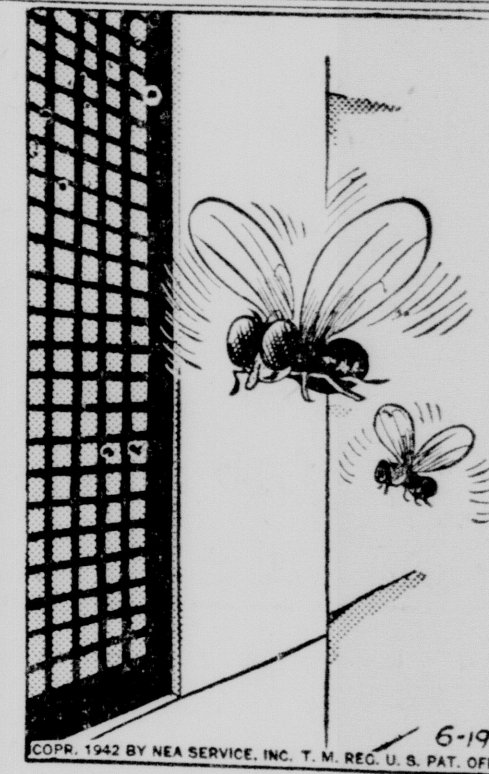

Experimental results at the Missouri Experiment station show that approximately 1,000 pounds of mash and 570 pounds of grain is required to feed 100 chicks from hatching to 20 weeks of age.

In addition a constant supply of clean water goes hand in hand with unlimited growing mash and grain feeding. Good water, the cheapest feed available, is often neglected.

Green feed also reduces feed requirements and aids in developing more vigorous pullets. Legumes such as alfalfa, red clover, sweet clover, and lespedeza are excellent green feeds, therefore, a field of this kind would be an excellent place to move the summer range shelter.

Ample feeder space is another factor for rapid and economical growth. Each 100 pullets should be provided with four feeders four to five feet in length. Two should be used for growing mash and two for supplying grain. Range feeders should be large enough to hold one day's supply of feed.

An inexpensive barrel waterer can be made, using a wooden barrel equipped with an automatic float valve in a round shallow pan. The pan should be covered with a conical wire guard. Such a waterer will provide a day's supply and the wooden barrel

"All set for your screen test, daughter?"

will keep the water cooler than a metal drum or trough. Detailed information on constructing feeders and waterers may be secured at the County Agriculture Extension office.

Farm Output Level High

Production Is Stepped Up For Needs Of War

The agriculture of Pettis County as well as that of Missouri and other states is being geared to the highest level of production in its history to serve the requirements for war, points out County Agent, J. U. Morris. The requirements will be met probably with disastrous effects to our soil resources, unless additional widespread changes are made in land management.

Soil deterioration has developed gradually but with constantly increasing seriousness in terms of capacity to produce. A study of hundreds of plots during 1939 and 1940 at Bethany, Missouri, reveals this effect in detail which more discerning farmers all over Missouri have noticed in a general way. Where the top soil was one to two inches deep, corn yields averaged 24.9 bushels per acre, but where it was 13 inches or more in depth, the yields were 57.4 bushels, or about twice as much. Crop yields increased with soil depth in every one of the soil depth classes which were reported.

Conservation Helpful

The decline of soil fertility is relatively much less on land where soil conserving practices are used. At the same time, yields consistently increase with good soil management as shown by experimental results. The effects of soil conserving practices on yields are shown by a study made of two fields near Bethany, both with top soil depths of from 5 to 6 inches. One had been limed, manured, fertilized, and contour cultivated, while the other had no soil treatment and was farmed up and down hill. The yield of corn during the five-year period 1935-40 was 38.6 bushels under exploitive farming methods, and 66.7 bushels under conserving methods.

An essential requirement of farm planning and operation, especially during this period of large food requirements, is the use of soil conserving practices which will decrease the rate of soil decline and provide conditions for large yields of nutritious food.

Well In Line For The Saving Of Foodstuffs

Homemakers Of The County Solve Problems

Pettis County Homemakers are well in line with food preservation. They are seeking all the latest information possible on that subject. The leaders from the Home Economics Extension Clubs will meet with Miss Letha Knight, State Foods Specialist, on Friday afternoon, June 12, at the home of Dorothy Bacon, Home Demonstration Agent, for a leaders' training meeting on various types of food storage. This information will be carried back to the clubs by these ladies. In addition to that, we have several groups which have been having demonstrations on canning, drying, and cheese and butter making. These meetings have been arranged by the Food for Home leaders in various communities and are being presented by the Home Demonstration Agent and the Assistant County Agent.

Such demonstrations have been held at the home of Mrs. M. V. Lewis at Bryson; Elm Branch and Houstonia schools; Mrs. Tom Stevens' of the South Abell Community; Mrs. Baxter's of the Smithton Community; and others are scheduled for the home of Mrs. M. C. Templeton, Mrs. A. L. Moore, Miss Nona Elliott, Ionia Hall, and Mrs. Munsey Gregory.

These demonstrations permit the women to discuss the various problems which they have had or anticipate in food preservation as well as to discuss equipment. During the emergency some substitutes are having to be made in types of equipment and methods of preservation. The cheese making demonstrations have been well received by farm people who have an excess of milk at the present time. Since they do not have means of storing the milk, they can make American Cheddar cheese which can be stored for an indefinite period. Two women working together have made 21 pounds of cheese out of milk which otherwise would have been wasted. The concentrated food value which is available in cheese will mean much to these farm women and their families during the winter months, that is if they have not eaten it before that time.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND
ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The president has been given some blunt advice to deliver a "fireside chat" to explain the much bemuddled rubber and gas situation.

The advice was given at a recent White House conference by Donald Nelson, Leon Henderson, Archie MacLeish and Undersecretary of War Patterson, all of whom agreed that the people had been so confused by conflicting official pronouncements, and that only the president himself could clarify matters and explain why national rationing of gas is essential.

The answer to this is so simple that it seems fantastic that it hasn't been got over to the public. There is plenty of gas in the U. S.—except along the Atlantic seaboard—but real crux of gas rationing is the desperate shortage of rubber. That is the whole story in a nutshell.

Every responsible official in Washington, including the president, knows this. Yet a multitude of conflicting statements have befuddled the public and played directly into the hands of certain selfish oil interests opposed to gas rationing.

This fact was politely but bluntly impressed on the president at the White House conference.

Actually, he himself was guilty of one of the worst befuddling statements—his press conference remark that the rubber situation was being exaggerated, because some substitute for tires undoubtedly would be invented. This cheerful observation was made exactly two days after Donald Nelson and his rubber experts told the press that no substitute for rubber was in sight.

Telling The President

The White House conferees spoke plainly, particularly Leon Henderson who has been getting more of the brickbats on gas rationing.

"I'm taking the rap, Mr. President," he said, "and personally, I can take it. But there is more

Side Glances

"I hated to scold them and send them to bed! As a boy I got away with lots more mischief than they do because I was sneakier!"

involved than that. Our rubber reserve is at stake and unless you take the leadership in this fight, we are in real danger of being stopped in Congress."

MacLeish heartily seconded Henderson. The OFF chief declared that the president's unfortunate statement had hurt morale and that the whole gas and rubber problem had been badly mishandled.

"The people are patriotic and they will readily do whatever is deemed necessary to win the war," he said. But they have got to be told clearly and frankly what is wanted of them. The public simply does not realize that gas has to be rationed, not because of a shortage of gas, but to save rubber. That's the message that must be got over to them, and, Mr. President, you are the only one who can do it now."

Roosevelt took the plain-talk in good grace and agreed to do whatever was the best course. All the conferees were strongly of the view that a "fireside chat" was the best answer, and MacLeish was directed to prepare a memorandum for a presidential speech.

War Story

Navy men returning from duty with the Pacific fleet relate this amusing tale about a colored mess boy on a destroyer:

The ship arrived at Pearl Harbor after an arduous cruise, and the mess boy was one of the first ashore. He headed for Honolulu, planning a big day, but was not prepared for the surprise in store for him.

A large number of members of the Hawaiian home guard are loyal Japanese natives of the islands. The mess boy hadn't been told about this. So he was greatly startled when he beheld two armed and helmeted Japanese guardsmen patrolling the Honolulu business section.

He made a bee-line back to his ship and rushed to the commanding officer, pop-eyed and breathless.

"What's happened to you, Sam?" asked the puzzled officer. "Captain," gasped the mess boy,

"we done arrived too late. The Japs has got Honolulu."

Sensitive Tax-Axers

That secret huddle between Secretary Morgenthau and the senior members of the House Ways and Means committee, following his critical radio speech on the mutated tax bill, wasn't as "harmonious" as Chairman Robert Doughton afterward claimed.

Doughton opened the conference with a sugary statement about his "high respect" for the treasury chief and their "friendly relations." Then, glancing at a transcript of Morgenthau's speech, the veteran North Carolina Congressman demanded:

"Just what did you mean by that 'too little and too late' remark, Mr. Secretary?"

"I certainly meant no reflection on this committee or its work in drafting the tax bill," replied Morgenthau. "I am surprised any such inference was taken. It was, well, er, just something to pep up the speech."

But Doughton remained unsatisfied.

"You were quoted in the newspapers the next day," he persisted, "that the speech was 'intended to prod the committee into action.' Is that true?"

"It certainly is not true," replied Morgenthau, adding that what he had said was to the effect that he hoped the speech would help keep the committee's eye on the treasury's tax goal.

"I am glad to hear your explanation, Mr. Secretary," said Doughton, "but while we are on the subject, we should get one thing straight. This committee hasn't been guilty of any delay in preparing the tax bill. If there has been any delay, that's the treasury's fault, not ours."

With a triumphant air, Doughton ton pointed out that the treasury had promised to have its tax plan ready by the first week in January, but did not actually submit it until March 6.

However, neither Doughton nor other committee members mentioned that long before March the treasury very carefully outlined its tax plan, merely submitted the final formal draft on March 6. Also committee members carefully avoided mentioning that for three months since March 6, they have been inexcusably dallying with the vital legislation and still are far from finished.

Japs Admit Between The Lines A Stinging Blow

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Between the lines of Tokyo's belated report on the Midway-Dutch Harbor battles is virtual admission that a stinging American blow has been dealt Nipponese air-sea power in the Pacific.

If that was not true, there would be no reason for Tokyo to sugar-coat the admitted loss of one plane carrier and serious damage to another with a claim two American carriers had been sunk and 120 planes shot down; and with a vague intimation that a Japanese invasion of the Aleutian islands was under way.

The official Tokyo hand-out itself made no such claim. As relayed from Berlin—where it probably was accepted with tongue in cheek—it spoke of the "reduction" or "destruction" of American positions in the Aleutians. It required a Tokyo naval press spokesman to translate that into a verbal invasion for the edification of Japanese radio listeners.

Agree On Some Points

With one element of the Tokyo version the official word from Washington seemed to agree, as of the time of issue. Both reported operations continuing in the north central Pacific. But they were continuing westward, not eastward, until broken off Saturday night when contact was lost.

If Japanese forces of any type had been landed anywhere in the Aleutians, they would have to swim a long way to rejoin their retreating comrades.

Since it is probable that no important percentage of the Japanese people have heard American reports of two to four Japanese carriers down with all their planes lost and a dozen other warships or supply train vessels sunk and damaged, Tokyo did not have to attempt to reconcile its own with the American account. It did have to admit some loss; and the most obvious purpose of the method taken was to put these losses into a setting of victory, not defeat, even if that setting had to be manufactured verbatim.

To achieve that the Midway operations became a mere diversion, to intercept reinforcements. The Dutch Harbor blow became the main event although it had already been disclosed as a minor affair involving four enemy bombers and a dozen or so escorting fighters. Seizure of the Aleutian island bridge to the North American continent became the reputed objective.

It sounds silly. Harassment air raiding of the Alaskan outpost islands is always possible if Japan can risk the carriers or planes for minor operations of that sort. But while American naval power holds the whip hand in the eastern and central Pacific, as it unquestionably does, can extend its own task force forays far westward of the date line, as it has done, the notion of a Japanese march on Washington via the Aleutians is pure fantasy.

Save Clothespins Lady!

By MRS. ANNE CABOT

I doubt if we'll have to find substitutes for clothespins, but we might just as well be sensible and take care of the ones we have.

So when you hang up the laundry these fine summer mornings, have a practical (pretty, too, if possible!) clothes pin apron to carry your woodenpins in. This apron is made in two sections, the front-section being cut in pocket shape. "Bowser"—7 inches high is embroidered in quick outline stitch right onto the unbleached muslin fabric. He has fluffy hair, a big red bow around his neck, and the clothespin he is holding in his mouth is cheerful yellow. The apron makes a grand gift as well as a veritable treasure of a wash-day accessory. You'll be able to make several of these clever aprons from odd lengths of leftover materials!

To Australia And Back Before Seeing Jap

JEFFERSON CITY, June 11—(AP)—Lieut. Louis Bredeman of Jefferson City went clear to Australia to fight the Japanese—but it wasn't until he returned to the United States last month that he saw a single Jap.

"And that was an alien being taken to a station for internment," said Bredeman, home on a visit.

Serial Story

Sporting Blood

by Harry Harrison Kroll

Copyright, 1942, NEA Service, Inc.

Hunter put Junior Ballard on the bed. . . . There was a soft leather satchel lying on the floor. Hunter picked it up, saw the spot was a smear of blood. There was blood on the boy, too.

CHAPTER I

HUNTER DENT tried to keep his tanned, lean face from showing anger. Strickland Ballard, his boss, chuckled triumphantly.

"You are aware, of course, that everything produced on an employer's time by one of his employees automatically becomes the employer's property? That is the law, sir."

"But, Mr. Ballard, two years of the time I used to develop this strain of prolific corn was during my last two years at the university—"

Strickland Ballard lifted a thick, white hand. "That's beside the point, young man. I do seem to remember your saying something about Ballard's Prolific when you came to manage my estate, but the point is the type was fixed only this past fall, and since planting and seed selection, and all the experimental work, as well as land and fertilizers, came out of my pocket, and on my time, the product must revert to my ownership. You'd not wish to carry the claim to court, would you?"

"N-no, I suppose not, sir."

"Now don't take it so hard, young man," Ballard said. "The same thing applies to the horse that applies to the Ballard strain of corn. It was a wager between us, and I won, that's all."

"I'm learning, sir. Fast. The hard way. You call it sportsmanship, I call it robbery. You think you're a great sport, I just have to tell you to your face, sir, you're a thief."

"Them's hard words, pardner. I hope you smile when you say them!" Strickland Ballard broke out in a roar of laughter. Then he sobered, but remained fatherly.

"Tut, tut, son. Take it easy. I learned the hard way too. See all this?" He waved his hand at the huge barns, the fine country house over in the trees, the rolling lands, the rich alluvial bottoms where the corn had been grown. Autumn sunlight sparkled in the quiet river. "Thirty years ago I was a country bumpkin. I was as thin as a rail. I chewed some barks and herbs for my stomach. It got well. They laughed at me, even the family doctor hooted at the idea the medicine cured me. 'All right, I told 'em, 'I'll bet you that was it' That was the beginning of Ballard's Remedies. Those barks and herbs through that wager became all this. Get the idea?"

"I get it," Hunter Dent nodded.

He was not less angry, but he did have a sneaking admiration for this thick-skinned man who had won a major bet.

A GIRL on a sleek young Tennessee walking horse came from the stable not far from the two men. She was red-headed.

"Go tend to Bella," Mr. Ballard said. "And I must be going to work."

"I just want to lay a new wager with you."

"Ah!" The man's sporting blood was immediately stirred. "By all means. What is it?"

"I'm betting you a year's work next season against making you get on your knees and apologizing to me for stealing everything I didn't have clamped down in a written contract when I came to you four years ago. You're going to restore my corn, my horse, and beg my pardon, or next year I work for you without salary. Come on, come on, you wheel-horse of a sportsman! Bet."

Bella Ballard had firefly leap the gate, and she joined them. "Repeat that in my daughter's presence," Strickland Ballard cried gleefully.

Hunter Dent did so. Bella grinned, looking like her father. Bella slipped from the saddle, walking with the moody young man. "Dad will trim you again, Hunter. He never loses. He always bets on sure-things."

"You're telling me! Just the same I'm going to stake everything on this one roll of the dice. I know a thing or two he is overlooking."

"For instance?"

"That irresponsible crack-pot brother of yours, that son of your sporting pappy, one Junior Ballard!" He watched, almost with satisfaction, the fun go out of her eyes. He did not wait for her to ask questions as to what he meant. He stopped. "Now you run along, sweet chile, and take your morning's constitutional on Hunter's boss. Hunter has to go somewhere and try to find his lost soul."

"Red," the name Hunter knew her by, started to mount firefly, but as suddenly turned to him, put her arms around his neck, and kissed him. Hunter was momentarily stunned. When he had come here to work, four seasons ago, and she was a filly of a kid, she'd been affectionate and had kissed him, because he must have seemed strong and great to her kid mind; but now she was a young woman and should know what a kiss is worth. Maybe she did, at that. She got into the saddle, looked down at him, impish fires in her eyes again.

"Maybe that would help you find it, Hunter," she said, and moved off on the splendid horse Hunter had bred, reared, trained.

FOR Hunter it was a tough day. He belabored himself to keep from tearing his hair and going wild and shooting the place up. It was late when he went to the office, which was located in the second story of the garage. Here were a desk, a big steel safe, filing cases for farm records and records of the purebred Jersey herd, the horses and sheep. Everything was registered here at Ballard's. Over at the house some kind of a party was in progress. Hunter could hear music and hilarity. It would last until dawn. He'd have to load the drunks in the morning, likely. He posted his books, and wearily lay down, without removing his clothes, on the office day bed.

He must have been sleepier than he thought. What the hour was when something limp and heavy fell across his bed, waking him, he did not know. A thin moon was sinking. When Hunter got out from under the object and switched on a light he discovered Junior Ballard lying on the floor in a stupor. Junior was in tails and white tie. Hunter put him on the bed. He looked down on the pale, dissipated face. A good kid, in a way, too . . . and a bad one. There was a soft leather satchel lying on the floor. Hunter picked it up, saw the spot was a smear of blood. There was blood on the boy, too. He saw a long scratch on Junior's arm. He opened the bag and after that time, nor anything else, mattered much.

When he finished counting the contents he had $17,000 in cash.

Production In U. S. Ahead Of The British

Minister From Britain Tells Of Output There

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The swiftly-rising rate of American war production has already exceeded that of Great Britain and "will soon be far ahead," Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of production, asserted Wednesday night.

Some indication of what this portends was disclosed by the minister in an address prepared for the Columbia broadcasting system when he gave these figures on British production:

"We are producing tanks, jeeps and other mechanical vehicles at a rate of 257,000 a year. This is an increase of 350 per cent over the rate in the last quarter of 1940.

"We are producing 40,000 big guns a year and supplying them with 25 million rounds of ammunition.

"We are producing millions of small arms each year and supplying them with 2,000 million rounds of ammunition.

"We have increased our production of aircraft 100 per cent over the rate achieved during the last quarter of 1940.

"We have increased our production of merchant ships by 57 per cent over the last quarter of 1940 x x x.

"We have increased our production of all weapons of war as a whole by 100 per cent during the last 12 months alone."

Lyttelton came to the United States to help set up the joint American-British production board announced yesterday by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Gear Big Plants

"Donald Nelson (American war production board chief) and I have been working to gear the Birmingham and Sheffield, Pittsburghs and Detroit into one single engine of destruction," he explained.

The two were named by their respective governments to accomplish the pooling of industrial resources. Preliminary conversations have included standardization of weapons and more efficient use of shipping—currently the major problem.

"Britain's life depends upon shipping," Lyttelton declared. "The shipbuilding of the U. S. A.—surely one of the most massive industrial efforts ever exerted—will relieve the strain. The output planned will be attained—I am sure of it, but until then the British merchant marine must remain the principal link which binds the United Nations together in war."

Lyttelton, who has become a public figure in Great Britain only since the outbreak of the war, drew a vivid picture of war time life on the British Isles where no place is more than 70 miles from the sea. He said:

Women in industry numbering 5,500,000 work up to 55 hours a week; 77½ per cent of the boys and 67½ per cent of the girls between the ages of 14 and 17 are engaged in war work; food, clothing and gasoline are rationed and "we can still laugh although one home out of every five—and there are 13,000,000 of them—has

Mrs. Vivian D. Van Dyne and Mrs. George F. Yeaman were hostesses at a tea at the former's home, 1012 West Broadway, from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon honoring Mrs. John Rudd Van Dyne, Jr., a recent bride, and Mrs. H. C. Kennedy of Kalamazoo, Mich., a sister of Mrs. Vivian D. Van Dyne, who is visiting in Sedalia.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Leon H. Archias, Jr., Mrs. Jack Ridgeway, Mrs. John G. Crawford, Miss Marian Keens, Miss Laura Johns and Mrs. Harvey L. Keens.

Awards at the individual tables at the first summer card party at the Country club Wednesday morning were received by Mrs. W. P. Hurley, Mrs. A. J. Brandom, Mrs. Henry R. Harris, Mrs. D. P. Dyer, Mrs. E. L. Spangler, Mrs. Leon H. Archias, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Griffin and Mrs. Chester Kurtz of Des Moines, Iowa.

There were eight tables of players. A luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock after the card games.

Out-of-town players, guests of Mrs. D. P. Dyer, were her daughters, Mrs. Edgar McQuiddy of Chicago and Mrs. Jack Atkinson of Fulton and Mrs. Zack Black of Chicago and Mrs. Kurtz.

Members of the club are reminded of the Sunday suppers being served through the evening as a special summer social feature. There will be another card party next Wednesday.

At 11:30 o'clock last Sunday morning, Miss Leona Mae Swearingen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Swearingen, of Lincoln, exchanged marriage vows with Mr. John Mitchell Smethers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smethers of Sedalia.

The Rev. Walter P. Arnold read the service at the East Sedalia Baptist church in the presence of many friends and relatives. Arrangements of large baskets of white gladioli and pink snapdragons and palms, illuminated by white tapers, comprised the decoration.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Eula Mae Pratt sang "At Dawning." Mr. W. A. Morgan, the organist, played the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" as the bride party approached the altar, and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional. Soft strains of several old love songs were played during the ceremony.

The bride's gown of white bengaline taffeta and imported net trimmed with white chantilly lace was fashioned with a tight bodice, low waistline and a very full skirt. A halo of chantilly lace with rhinestone clasps at the sides held the fingertip veil of imported net in place. The bride carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and sprays of baby breath.

Miss Violet Whiteman, the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of pale yellow chiffon fashioned with a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Pratt's gown was of peach taffeta and she wore a corsage of white gladioli blossoms and white stephanotis. Miss Edna Smethers and Miss Helen Rush, who lighted the tapers, were dressed in floor length gowns of poudre blue and wore corsages like that of Miss Pratt.

Mr. August Williams served the bridegroom as best man.

Following the wedding, a dinner was enjoyed by relatives and a few close friends, at the bride's home. A three-tier wedding cake with its miniature bride and groom figures was the table centerpiece.

Mrs. Smethers graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in 1939, and attended Central Business college for one year. Mr. Smethers also attended the Sedalia public schools.

The young couple will be at home at 603 East Eleventh street.

Miss Nancy Poteet, of Kansas City, a daughter of Mr. Allan A. Poteet, of that city, a former Sedalian, was one of the graduates of the University of Missouri, awarded the Phi Beta Kappa honor. Her father attended her graduation.

Another daughter, Miss Virginia Poteet has returned to Kansas City from Wellesley college, and the family will be at home for the summer at the Brookside hotel.

Mr. Poteet is a brother of Mrs. George C. Hoffman, 824 West Broadway.

Mrs. Barbara Metheny and Mr. Eugene Beck of Kansas City, were married at 10 o'clock Saturday night at the home of the bridegroom's nephew, Mr. Omar S. Garrett, 804 West Fourteenth street, with the Rev. Walter P. Arnold performing the ceremony.

The attendants were Mrs. Joe Latham of Los Angeles, Calif., Mr. Beck's sister, and Mr. Garrett.

The bride wore a dusty rose sheer ensemble with blue accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Gladioli, sweet peas and carnations in baskets and vases formed a background for the wedding service. The living and dining rooms of the home were lighted by white candles, and a bowl of red roses graced the dining room table.

Relatives present were Mrs. Joe Larham, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Garrett, Miss Dorothy M. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Omar S. Garrett and four sons, Omar S. Garrett, Jr., Donald Gene, Charles Aaron and Cary Paul Garrett.

Mr. Beck is a salesman for the General Baking company of Kansas City.

The annual picnic for the Sedalia Symphony orchestra will be held at Bothwell Lodge next Monday evening, with Mrs. Lee Montgomery of the Bothwell Lodge club and a member of the symphony board as hostess.

Each member may bring a guest, and the group is asked to meet at 6 o'clock at the high school.

Transportation will be arranged for all planning to attend.

Miss Edna Eichholz, daughter of Mrs. Mary Eichholz of Spring Fork, and Pte. Leonard Sigman of Camp Blanding, Fla., son of Mrs. Charles Feedback of Sedalia, were married at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the St. Patrick Catholic church at Spring Fork. Rev. Father Bauer of Bahner read the nuptial mass.

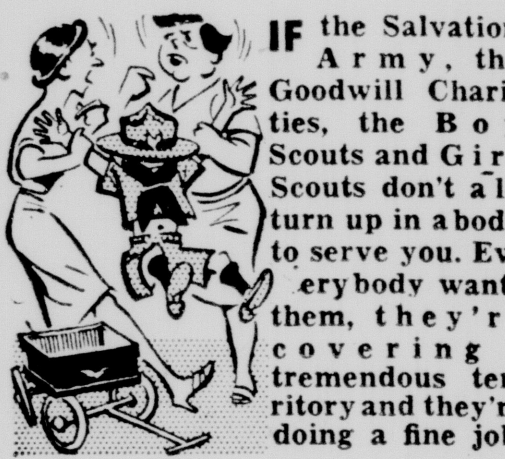

Garden flowers were used in the church decorations. The bride wore a gown of white net over white lustre stripe satin, made floor-length with a long train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by gardenias, and she carried a bouquet of roses intermingled with lilies and pinks. Her only jewelry was a sweetheart necklace, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Eichholz, who wore a gown of aqua blue satin with a large white hat. Mr. Eichholz attended Private Sigman.

Mrs. Mary Eichholz wore a sailor blue dress with a corsage of violets and Mrs. Feedback, the groom's mother, wore a soldier brown dress with a white corsage.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, and a dinner at the home of Mrs. Henry Frisbie, the bride's sister. Red, white and blue predominated in the decorations at the Frisbie home. A reception was given Tuesday evening at the bride's home with a number of relatives and friends attending.

Mrs. Sigman was born and reared in Spring Fork and attended Walnut school, and Mr. Sigman, who attended the schools in Sedalia, was a member of the National Guard, 128th F. A., going into active service in December, 1940. Mrs. Sigman probably will join him soon.

AN IMPORTANT OBJECTIVE of our war program is better health and efficiency at home as well as at the front. Keeping fit is part of our job today and in that job, your Utilities—the tax paying electric, gas and water companies of Missouri—are helping.

Modern cooking methods, with gas or electricity, help you conserve food and preserve the minerals and vitamins that your family needs. That helps Uncle Sams nutrition and conservation program. Homes with proper sanitation, with running hot water, heated with gas, lighted by electricity, protected by mechanical refrigeration . . . and served by other Utility servants . . . are dwellings of healthy, happy, well fed Americans. Such homes will help win the War.

Without a ready source of good pure water, without gas for cooking and comfort, without the many services of electricity—our homes could not play their full part in the war effort. But you can rest assured your Utilities will carry on and do their utmost to supply these essential services for the duration—to our final victory.

Crop Prospects For Country Are Excellent

Record Output Indicated After Recent Survey

WASHINGTON, June 11—(P)—
—Reporting that crop prospects have rarely averaged better at this season of the year, the agriculture department said Wednesday if weather conditions continued favorable, the country would be assured of a record output of farm commodities for war needs.
The forecast was based upon the department's monthly survey of planting operations and of weather and growing conditions throughout the country.
"While definite forecasts of total crop production can hardly be made till plantings of later crops have been completed and growth of early crops is further advanced," the report said, "present conditions fully support earlier expectations of increased planting and light abandonment (of previously seeded acreages)."
"Growing conditions are so generally favorable that another year of heavy production of crops and livestock seems probable. If the weather continues favorable, previous records of agricultural output may be considerably exceeded."

Early Forecasts
The department made preliminary forecasts on the production of a few major crops, principally small grains. It estimated a total wheat crop of 868,059,000 bushels, including 646,931,000 bushels of winter wheat and 321-128,000 of spring wheat. While 8 per cent below last year's harvest, a crop of this size would be substantially above the 1930-39
average of 747,507,000 bushels.

Proclamation

Whereas, the dairy industry is one of the exceedingly valuable divisions of agriculture in the State of Missouri, and Whereas, milk and its products are important to the health not only of our people in civil life but also that of our men in service,
and

Whereas, the public generally is vitaly concerned in this great industry and it is appropriate that special recognition be by our people given to the importance of the industry,

Now, therefore, I the undersigned hereby proclaim June of 1942 as Dairy Month in Missouri and urge our citizens to give special thought and attention during this month to this highly important branch of Missouri agriculture.

In witness whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name and cause the Great Seal of the State of Missouri to be affixed at the city of Jefferson this second day of June, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-
Two.

FORREST C. DONNELL,
Signed:
Governor of Missouri.

Attest:
DWIGHT H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.

Supplementing this year's crop will be an estimated record reserve supply of 630,000,000 bushels carried over from previous years.

The department forecast the production of oats—an important livestock feed—at 1,252,380,000 bushels. This was slightly above last year's production and considerably above the ten-year average.

The rye crop was forecast at 54,397,000 bushels compared with 45,191,000 harvested last year.
Barley production seems likely,
the department said, to pass the 400,000,000-bushel mark for the first time in history.

The department made no forecast on corn but it said that this crop was making satisfactory progress despite late planting in some sections.

Baked Lamb Patties
1 lb. ground lamb (from neck),
1 cup fresh bread, crumbed, 1 egg, slightly beaten, seasoning to taste, 1/2 cup stock or broth from 1 bouillon cube.

Mix the meat with crumbs, egg and seasonings. For seasonings, allow 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, a fleck of thyme and 2 teaspoons minced parsley;
1 teaspoon lemon juice adds zest.
Shape the mixture in small patties and place in glass casserole. Pour the warm broth or stock over patties; celery or parsley leaves may be added. Bake 1 hour in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., basting occasionally. Baking may be speeded by covering for the first period. Serves 4.

Sauce For Cooked Vegetables Fresh asparagus, broccoli and boiled cabbage should be enlivened occasionally by a cheese sauce.

Try this:
1 tablespoon butter, 1 1/2 cups
finely diced American cheese, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 3/4 cup evaporated milk.

Melt butter and cheese in top of double boiler over hot water; keep heat fairly low. Add salt, sauce and mustard. Blend thoroughly before stirring in milk.
Heat to boiling point and remove quickly. Yields 2 1/2 cups sauce.

Pan Fried Porgies
3 pounds Porgies, split to about 3/8 inch thick, 1 cup yellow cor-meal and flour, equal parts, 4 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons shortening.

Heat shortening over low heat in a heavy utensil. Cut fish to service portions. Sift together the cornmeal, flour and salt. Dip fish in water or milk and cover well with dry ingredients. When shortening is thoroughly heated,
place fish in the pan and cook
3 minutes. Then cover the pan tightly and remove from fire, allowing fish to cook in its own steam about 2 minutes. Remove cover, turn fish, return pan to heat and cook 3 minutes longer.
(Allow 1/2 pound fish per serving.) Any fish suited to frying can be cooked by this method.
Fish less than 3/8 inch thick will require a shorter cooking time;
allow longer for thicker fish.

Rosy Grapefruit Juice
1 cup fresh raspberries, 2 1/2 cups unsweetened grapefruit, 4 tablespoons sugar, or syrup or honey to taste.

Mash the berries with the sugar; press through strainer.
Combine the raspberry mixture with the grapefruit juice that has been chilled in advance.
Serve in glasses half-filled with cracked ice. This serves 4; delicious starter for luncheon.
SUBSTITUTE: Replace berries and sugar with 3/4 cup logan-berry juice.

was made by WPB after a special committee created by Nelson reported the line "could be built with a minimum of disturbance to the war production program" and could start delivering oil within half a year.

"It (the WPB) took this action after considering the changed situation with respect to oil tankers and military requirements," Nelson said, "and after receiving assurances that prompt construction of the line will not interfere with delivery of steel or motor equipment orders for the war and navy departments or for the maritime commission's shipbuilding program."

Suspicious Fire On Loaded Ship

NEW YORK, June 11—(P)—A fire of suspicious origin broke out today on the S. S. Irene Du Pont, which the fire department reported was being loaded with a cargo of rubber tires, aviation oil and cartridges at its Brooklyn pier.

The fire department dispatched two fireboats to fight the blaze, which it said was discovered at 5:54 a. m. (CWT) in the No. 2 hatchway of the ship and was raging between decks.

Huge clouds of dense smoke were pouring from the stricken vessel, tied up at pier 2 at the foot of Columbia street in Brooklyn.

The third naval district public relations office authorized use of the story, including the ship's name. The naval district officer said he had no knowledge that there were cartridges on the ship, and it was his understanding she carried a general cargo.

The fire was brought under control within an hour, and fire officials said that it had been confined to a section of the ship's general cargo.

No one was working on the freighter at the time of the fire, and police said no one was injured.

Police reported to the fire marshal's office that the fire might be of suspicious origin, and the fire marshal and police began an investigation.

The S. S. Irene Du Pont is a ship of 6,400 tons and was launched in 1941.

No Japanese On Inhabited Areas Of Aleutian Islands

BY DE WITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Japs, whose reputation for veracity isn't above reproach, claim they have been able to occupy western islands in our Aleutian chain off the Alaskan peninsula, and they emphasize this as having "pointed a sword at the enemy's throat."

Washington replies through a navy spokesman: "We have no information about any Japanese on Alaskan soil. Certainly none of our inhabited areas, islands or rocks are troubled with uninvited visitors up to this time."

Well, if the little men of Nippon are lying, who can blame them for trying to save face with their home folk in view of our great victory at Midway? Admiral Nimitz, commander of the U. S. Pacific fleet, discloses that our forces routed an armada of over thirty warships and that perhaps half the vessels of this great fleet were casualties, with the resulting deaths of thousands of Japanese. That will take some explaining to the people of the Mikado's domains, and the claim of a landing in the Aleutians may make the task easier.

May Be On "Rock"

To give the devil his due, we can't rule out the possibility that the Japs may have boarded some tiny, unoccupied rock. Anyway, if none of our "inhabited areas, islands or rocks" have been occupied, any argument about the matter is a tempest in a teapot. There are plenty of uninhabited spots among the volcanic pinnacles which form the islands in the western Aleutians where a Jap or a monkey could clamber ashore and hang on, though such a precarious perch would be a painful liability.

The Aleutians swing westward from the Alaskan peninsula in a comet-like curve for a thousand miles towards Russian Katchatka and Japan. Most of these islands are volcanic and some are active. They have rocky coasts and are very dangerous to approach because the land rises sharply from the sea to steep mountains.

Undesirable Weather

The weather is an abomination, for through most of the year the Aleutians are shrouded in fogs which frequently give way to hurricanes. In some sections the hurricanes are punctuated by dangerous williwaws—violent icy blasts. It is a most inhospitable picture. June and July are the only months which provide decent weather and this fact presumably was one thing which encouraged the Japs to attack. By the same token they may return to the assault.

Unalaska, which lies near the tip of the Alaskan peninsula, is the biggest of the Aleutians and our air-naval base of Dutch Harbor is on an island in Unalaska Bay. This base is about 140 miles from the peninsula and, as I have pointed out before, is of great strategic value because it not only is guardian of the northwest approach to our continent but the Japs fear it as a starting point for operations against Japan proper.

Dutch Harbor Significant

The position of Dutch Harbor becomes more significant when the National Geographic Society points out that "though it does not appear so on the flat map, Dutch Harbor is virtually on the shortest possible route from Seattle to Tokyo. This is true because of the curvature of the earth, which makes the great circle route the shortest distance between two points."

Had the Japanese captured Dutch Harbor they would have created a serious position for us. They would thus have secured a base from which they could strike at Alaska, prey on our shipping, and even strike at our west coast. Further, they would have cut us off from this direct communication with Russia and would have deprived us of a valuable offensive position.

However, the best they claim is occupation of something or other in the western Aleutians. That need not cause undue anxiety, for this part of the Island chain is virtually uninhabited, since the volcanic rocks present neither

Early Service For Workers

St. Louis Minister Gets His Idea From The Movies

ST. LOUIS, June 11—(P)—Keeping step with wartime conditions, Lafayette Park Baptist church has gone on a swing shift with early morning services for defense workers.

The first of these unique worship periods was held at 2 o'clock this morning, and the Rev. O. R. Shields, the pastor, who got his idea from midnight movies, said they would continue as a regular Thursday morning feature until the war ends.

He picked Thursday because it seemed to be the most suitable time for war workers and others whose hours of employment conflict with regular religious services.

"This is not a special entertainment program," he told his early morning listeners, most of whom came dressed in their every-day work clothes—coatless or wearing slacks and house dresses.

"It is a regular church service for defense workers who otherwise would be unable to attend church."

Bibles For Defense

"We need Bibles today for defense the same as we need bonds and bullets, and there's no reason why we can't worship the same and sing as well at 2 o'clock in the morning as we can at 11 o'clock."

The minister, not yet 30, said he got his idea from the movies which started early morning shows for war workers.

"If the movies can do it successfully, so can the church," he commented.

The crowd, which half filled the small south side church, was about equally divided between men and women. There were quite a number of young people present.

The service opened with the congregation singing "Tell Me The Old, Old Story." The text of the sermon was: "The Defense For The Defense Worker."

Mrs. Maud W. Holmes of St. Louis was chosen department auxiliary president. Next year's convention will be at Eldorado Springs.

How To Keep Sweet

Follow the lead of bakers by using jams and jellies for cake icing and fruits in fillings. Use honey, syrups and molasses in baking. Frosting goes further when it is applied in lace-like patterns.

Fresh strawberries, slightly sweetened, and served on piping hot biscuits—make in the Cooking School way—gives a dessert no sweet tooth will turn down.

Combine dried fruits for extra flavor and appeal. Stewed apricots and prunes are a favorite with the undernourished children in New York who receive this as the dessert for their typical public school lunch, which also includes such items as this: Bowl of tomato and lima bean soup, sandwich, and a cup of milk.

Up-side down cake is a well-come answer to sugar limitations. For the bottom of the cake mix together two tablespoons of melted butter and one-fourth cup of corn syrup. Spread over the bottom of an eight-inch square pan. Arrange cooked apricot halves, sliced peaches or other cooked fruit over the mixture in the pan. Pour over it plain one-egg cake batter, in which one cup corn syrup can substitute for sugar, to the usual two cups sifted flour and two-thirds cup milk. If honey is used in the bottom of the pan, bake at a low temperature, since honey scorches easily.

Four ounces of prunes contain as much sugar as a 2-ounce candy bar.

Dash of salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
Put egg white, corn syrup, sugar, cream of tartar, and salt in top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly with rotary egg beater until mixture will hold a peak (about 7 minutes.) Remove from fire, add vanilla, and beat until cool and thick enough to spread. Covers top and sides of 10-10x2 inch loaf; tops and sides of two 8-inch layers.

In many states of the Union, the gasoline tax to the gallon is 100 per cent greater than the cost of gasoline.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The amphibian tank or tractor is a product of modern warfare and its function is to convey supplies and reserve troops from transports to the battle scene after the initial force has established a beach head or base of operations ashore. The tractor's ability to navigate from land to water obviates the necessity for transshipment of supplies at the water's edge, a process formerly involving great risk of life and equipment loss.

Amphibian tanks in some cases may be used as an assault weapon where rivers or streams must be crossed on the battle field. It is heavily armored, carries a complement of guns and costs approximately $50,000. Our Army and Marine Corps is using these new war implements and needs hundreds of them. Buy War Bonds every pay day and you can help pay for them. Help your community top its War Bond Quota. U. S. Treasury Department

Army Grid Stars Play For Relief

Two Powerful Teams Will Battle Clubs Of Nation Pro League

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Two powerful army football teams, made up of the finest college and professional talent in the service, will battle the clubs of the National Professional League across the nation's gridirons this autumn in a series of games principally for the benefit of the army emergency relief.

In six bustling weeks the two service elevens—one representing the "East," the other the "West"—expect to appear in cities all the way from Los Angeles to Boston and to reap a million dollars or more for charity. Their respective schedules still are far from fixed, but each of the principal cities of the north appears to be assured a look at one or the other of Uncle Sam's "dream" teams.

Start Training In August

It is planned for the two army squads to begin training August 22, one somewhere in the mid-west and the other on the east coast. Six days later, on Aug. 28, the west team has a date with the professional Washington Redskins in the Los Angeles coliseum.

Army authorities have not yet selected the coaches, but it is virtually certain that Wallace Wade, famous as coach of the Duke Blue Devils and now major of a machine gun battalion, will handle the eastern squad. The coaches will pick their own squads and select training sites.

To make things handy for them the army has compiled a list of 1,500 football stars, past and present, professional and collegiate, who are in uniform now. All the coaches will need to do is go down the list with their pencils and mark an "X" now and then when they detect a 200-pound halfback who can run the hundred yards in 10 seconds flat. No subsidizing, no proselytizing.

two army teams to meet in a grand climatic tussle after they have finished with the professionals, but it probably could be arranged.

Ray McCarthy, sports coordinator for the army emergency relief, still has to smooth out a lot of details. Dates have not been set for games with four of the professional teams and it is probable that some dates announced at this time will have to be altered.

McCarthy said the eastern team would open against the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds Sept. twelfth.

Word comes via the Sporting News that army baseball at Fort Riley, Kans., carries the light touch. When Private Ed Cole, former Brownie, was pitching a night game against a semi-pro club, the opponents protested because Cole's army identification tag had slipped outside his shirt and the reflection was bothering the batters. . . . And when the lights were turned on at 9 p. m. for another game, Pvt. Joe Cantenbin, formerly of the Athletics wisecracked: "Any errors made by our club this evening won't be coincidental; in the barracks they turn out the lights at this time."

Kill All Men In Village of Czechs

Lidice Is Wiped Out By Vengeance
Squads Of Nazis

LONDON, June 11—(AP)—German vengeance squads utterly wiped out Lidice, a Czech village of 1,200 persons Wednesday, killing all the men and deporting the women and children, on the ground that the population harbored the two assassins of Reinhard Heydrich, the late German ruler of Bohemia-Moravia.

Completing this most savage single act of repression in the history of German occupation of continental Europe, Gestapo and German soldiery razed the village, leaving nothing but rubble, the German controlled radio announced from Prague.

Lidice is—or was—a village of coal miners and woodworkers a few miles west of the Czech capital and not far from where Heydrich "the Hangman" was fatally wounded by two patriots while driving along a winding road two weeks ago.

Claimed Hiding Place
The assassins, who leaped upon Heydrich's car with automatic pistol and bomb, have not been caught.

Shortly after Prague and Berlin radios had announced the fate of Lidice "as the hiding place of the Heydrich murderers," German authorities in Prague disclosed that 25 more Czechs had been executed today in the capital and 6 in Brunn for a total of 306—exclusive of the Lidice dead—to be slain since the attack on Heydrich.

In London, authorities of the allied and exiled governments of the continent estimated that 500,000 persons had been shot or hanged in all Europe since the beginning of the German conquest.

Only yesterday during Heydrich's elaborate funeral rites in Berlin, Getapo Chief Heinrich Himmler vowed complete revenge on his killers. The slaughter of Lidice was his macabre sequel.

The Prague broadcasts said the women had been sent to a concentration camp and the children to "educational centers." Then the Nazis removed the name of the village from their records.

Besides being accused of hiding Heydrich's slayers, the population of the village was accused in the broadcast of having "committed other hostile acts such as keeping an illegal dump of ammunition and arms and maintaining an illegal transmitter."

Before this had happened, the Germans had executed 275 Czechs for the assassination of Heydrich, and it was apparent from German advices received today in Switzerland that a new wave of punitive measures is on the way, not only in Czechoslovakia but in other occupied countries.

Feel Terror Campaign
Prague, Paris, Amsterdam, all Poland and Yugoslavia probably will be the first to feel the chill of this new terror campaign, it was indicated in German advices reaching Bern.

Of the half-million Europeans already believed dead by the hand of the Nazi executioner, approximately five per cent were wiped out in mass "reprisal" killings of hostages. The remainder, including many women, were executed on various charges, such as sabotage, plotting and aiding the enemy.

The Norwegian, Belgian and Netherlands governments and the Free French committee here said the increased tempo of executions in the past few weeks indicated resistance to the Germans was increasing in direct ratio to the shootings.

The governments, in estimating the number killed, did not consider "the countless thousands who have died in concentration camps or from ill treatment and hunger as a result of the 'new order.'"

The Yugoslav government estimated 350,000 killed in Yugoslavia alone and the Polish government said 90,000 Poles had been executed. They attributed the stupendous totals to German massacres of "entire villages in attempts to wipe out guerrilla activity."

Incomplete totals picked up from German broadcasts tell a grim story of their own, with the best compilations showing nearly 7,000 shootings and hangings reported by the Germans themselves.

A majority of the executions were never broadcast. Some were published in local papers which never reached London. One Czechoslovak official said: "A vast number of those killed was never made public at all, but we hear of them eventually via underground routes. For example, last November the Germans said nine students were executed as a result of riots in Prague, but we know of 120 who were killed."

Differences On Trucking Adjusted

Early Wednesday morning through a misunderstanding by some truckers operating on the railroad sub-grading at the Sedalia air base at Knob Noster, about twenty failed to have them in service. They were employed by McGuire, O'Brien and Brogan, construction company.

The differences developing were over end, or tail, gate use on trucks and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the matter was properly adjusted.
